RAPE AGGRESSION DEFENSE

A program designed to offer women an educational course of confrontational principals and personal defense. The RAD objective is "to develop and enhance the options of self-defense so they may become viable considerations to the woman who is attacked."

The RAD program is concluding its 11th year at Carson-Newman College and we feel as if it has been a great deterrent in combating sexual assault both on and off of the campus for the women who participated.

The course is offered each semester within the Health, Physical Education and Sports Science Department, and it is an accredited one hour course. Students can look in the college catalog under "women self defense" for the particulars.

At the present time four RAD instructors conduct the course and the number of students is limited to twenty.

Women should not refrain or hesitate to sign up for the course because of physical limitations. The course is for all women, regardless of their physical abilities, and they will be given OPPORTUNITIES TO DEMONSTRATE THEIR FULL OR LIMITED ABILITIES WITHOUT DISCRIMINATION.

RAD IS ALSO OFFERED AT TIMES TO VARIOUS OFF CAMPUS ORGANIZATIONS, TO INCLUDE SCHOOLS, CHURCHES AND COMPANIES WHERE THERE IS AN EXPRESSED INTEREST.
